

MAIN OFFICE

Fitzgerald MSI
27606 Lakeway Trail Lane
Fulshear, TX 77441

EMAIL

michael@mfitzgerald.com

ONLINE

www.mfitzgerald.com

Fitzgerald MSI
Peak Performance Consulting

COACHING REPORT

Development Plan For Strategic Self-Awareness

---

Joe Sample

September 17, 2018

---

The underlying analytics of this report are powered by Fitzgerald MSI and its strategic partners. We will help you to interpret results, but final responsibility for proper interpretation rests with the user. All assessment-related statements should be thoroughly probed by interview responses and behaviors, background data and references, and behavioral performance. Fitzgerald MSI utilizes a generalized assessment procedure. As such, we will support and stand by its interpretations and recommendations but not indemnify the user. It is programmed for general interpretation and should be appropriate for all employee groups, ages, etc. We interpret responses without knowledge of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, or physical disability. It is up to the user to maintain any EEOC- mandated records.

---

Introduction

---

The Coaching Report is designed to guide you through the development planning process. The report will help you bring together the results from the Leadership Forecast Reports (and any other assessment data you may have) and integrate those results into a comprehensive development plan. You can make effective use of this report on your own or in conjunction with a more formal coaching process. The report includes the following components:

- Process Checklist designed to walk you through building a development plan
- Development Model that provides guidance for integrating assessment data
- Job Analysis Worksheet to better understand the target job for your development effort
- Multi-rater Worksheet to indicate 360 results or behavioral examples
- Forecast Summary that overviews the results of your Leadership Forecast Reports
- Assessment Worksheet to summarize results of your Leadership Forecast Reports
- Data Integration Worksheet to organize all results into an overall performance snapshot
- Development Planning Form to record your development information (Appendix A)

Process Checklist

---

The process checklist shown below outlines the steps necessary to fully understand the large volume of information you now have regarding your development and how to use the information to create a comprehensive development plan. Before you begin to build your development plan, you should carefully read the next section outlining the Hogan Development Model. The model provides an excellent overview of the steps involved in creating a development plan.

This report follows the sequence of steps listed below beginning with the section following the Hogan Development Model.

General Model

---

One of the most difficult challenges associated with development is sifting through performance data and targeting areas for change. The Hogan Development Model is a simple way of meeting this challenge. The model has three components: Behavioral Attributes, Competency Domains, and Job Performance. Behavioral Attributes describe "why we do what we do." Competency Domains describe "what we do and how we do it." Job Performance represents the requirements necessary to be successful in a job. If you have development information on your Behavioral Attributes and Competency Domains, you can relate that information to job requirements. Accurately targeting development is a matter of choosing those areas that you can reasonably expect to change and, if you make the change, it will produce a noticeable performance improvement. The best targets are those that will produce the most improvement with the least amount of effort to change.

Job Performance

---

An appropriate development target should have a significant impact on job performance. If you understand the requirements of the job that impact successful performance, then targeting development is a matter of lining up the three components of the model. You should think about job requirements in terms of the Competency Domains. In other words, consider the competencies responsible for successful performance and group them according to the four domains. The domains will then serve as an organizing structure for all development planning activities. Your manager is probably the best source of information regarding those competencies most responsible for successful performance.

Competency Domains

---

Competency Domains are clusters of competencies that tend to go together. They are best measured using on-the-job behavioral examples obtained through feedback. This can be done systematically using a 360 rating process or by simply asking for feedback from those individuals that know your work best. Four domains capture most of the competencies that commonly occur in business. Business Skills include competencies that can be done on your own and usually are thoughtful in nature. Leadership Skills include competencies used in managing others. Interpersonal Skills encompass competencies used in getting along with others. Finally, Intrapersonal Skills refer to competencies considered to be at the core of how one approaches any work assignment.

The Competency Domains have an important developmental relationship to each other. Intrapersonal Skills develop early in life followed by Interpersonal, Leadership, and Business Skills. The earlier in life a skill is developed, the more difficult it is to change. For example, planning skills (Business Skills Domain) are much easier to develop than initiative (Intrapersonal Skills Domain). This distinction should be considered when choosing development targets.

WHAT WE DO AND HOW WE DO IT, MEASURED USING JOB-RELATED FEEDBACK

Behavioral Attributes

---

Behavioral Attributes are best measured by assessment inventories that are capable of looking beyond a small sample of behaviors to provide a description of "why" those behaviors occur in the first place. Behavioral Attributes are comprised of personality characteristics, cognitive abilities, and motivational characteristics. The Leadership Forecast Potential Report and Challenge Report both provide excellent measures of personality characteristics. A measure of critical thinking such as the Watson-Glaser Critical Thinking Inventory is a good measure of cognitive abilities. Motivational characteristics speak to our wants and desires and are often manifested in our values. The Leadership Forecast Values Report provides a good understanding of motivational characteristics. Understanding your personality characteristics, cognitive ability, and motivational characteristics is the foundation for development. Knowing "why you do what you do" often dictates the targets you are likely to be successful in changing. It may also dictate the change strategy with the highest probability of success.

WHY WE DO WHAT WE DO, MEASURED USING ASSESSMENT INVENTORIES

Applying the Model

---

You now have a better understanding of the three components of the model. The next step is to apply these components to create a high impact development plan. The following example uses a sales job to illustrate how the model works.

Sales jobs have many critical requirements including planning (Business Skills), listening (Interpersonal Skills), and initiative (Intrapersonal Skills). In analyzing the sales job, you find that initiative is the most important competency followed by listening, then planning. In reviewing Competency Domain data (from your 360 ratings), you were rated high in initiative, but low in listening and planning.

Turning to data on your Behavioral Attributes, you were somewhat low on personality characteristics associated with listening and planning. Since you have Competency Domain and Behavioral Attribute data that indicate weaknesses in listening and planning, which one should be the primary target for development? You have to use some judgment at this point. Since listening was rated as more important to success than planning, it would be reasonable to target listening. However, it is important to realize that your listening skills develop long before your planning skills and will be a more challenging development target. You essentially have to balance the development challenge with the potential impact on successful job performance. In this case, it would be reasonable to conclude that, as a sales person, listening skills take priority over planning skills.

The following pages will help you apply this model in building a development plan for your target job.

Step I – Analyze Your Job

---

The starting point in building your development plan is to identify the key requirements of your job that are responsible for successful performance. Spend a few minutes thinking about the truly important requirements for success. You may want to ask your manager just to make sure you fully understand the requirements that will lead to success. In the space below, write down the competencies that are critical to success, grouping them according to the Competency Domains. Once you have listed them, describe in your own words what you think is the most important job requirement for each domain.

| Domains       | Competencies            | Describe the most important requirement |
|---------------|-------------------------|---|
| BUSINESS      | <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> |   |
| LEADERSHIP    | <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> |   |
| INTERPERSONAL | <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> |   |
| INTRAPERSONAL | <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> <hr/> |   |

Step 2 – Review Multi-rater Data

Multi-rater data can be very important to understanding "what" you do and "how" you do it on the job. If you have multi-rater data such as a 360 assessment, you can use this section to summarize the results. If you do not have 360 data, but have feedback from your manager or others in your organization regarding your job performance, you may want to use this section to summarize that information. Skip this section if you do not have any feedback regarding your job performance.

Review your multi-rater data and think about what the results reveal about your strengths and opportunities for development in each of the competency domains. Note your strengths and opportunities in the space provided and write down the specific multi-rater item (or statement) that was most important in leading you to your conclusions.

| Domains              | Strengths / Opportunities      | Multi-rater Items                |
|----------------------|--------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| BUSINESS      | Strengths:Opportunity: | ____________________ |
| LEADERSHIP    | Strengths:Opportunity: | ____________________ |
| INTERPERSONAL | Strengths:Opportunity: | ____________________ |
| INTRAPERSONAL | Strengths:Opportunity: | ____________________ |

Step 3 – Review Forecast Summary

---

This section summarizes your results from the Leadership Forecast Potential Report, Values Report, and Challenge Report. The summary will prepare you to do a more detailed review of the individual Leadership Forecast Reports. This section is organized in four parts: (1) Performance Strengths; (2) Values and Drivers; (3) Challenges; and (4) a Career Development Summary. At the end of this section, there is a table containing your individual scale scores for each of the Leadership Forecast Reports.

Performance Strengths

Personal Impact

You are active, hardworking, competitive, and eager to get ahead. You like leadership positions and enjoy being in charge. You are willing to take initiative in a group and, with the appropriate interpersonal skills, you will be able to assume leadership roles on team projects. These tendencies are particularly important in jobs that require directing others, persuasiveness, and working without supervision. Others will see you as energetic, talkative, and socially active. You should meet the public well and create a strong, even vivid, impression on others. You seem well suited for work that involves interacting with strangers. You should perform well in front of groups and like public speaking. This is particularly important for jobs in which one must constantly deal with strangers in a positive way, for example, in sales, training, marketing, and customer service work.

Interpersonal Skill

You are unusually diplomatic, friendly, charming, and sensitive to the needs and feelings of others. You will be able to build and maintain friendships. You are concerned about staff morale and being a good team player. You value encouraging, protecting, and helping others. These characteristics facilitate performance in jobs that require care giving, customer service, and developing long-term relationships. Flexible and spontaneous, you will usually be able to change directions quickly, work on several problems at the same time, and will not mind being interrupted. You will be comfortable using new and/or non-standard procedures to solve problems, and will probably be willing to challenge rules and take risks. These characteristics are important for jobs in fast-paced environments with changing priorities and possibilities for failure.

Working and Learning Style

You tend to be reflective and self-critical. As a result, you are usually vigilant regarding mistakes, concerned about being evaluated, responsive to coaching and feedback, and work in bursts of energy. These characteristics are useful in research activities, and as a stimulus to productivity and hard work. You are open-minded, curious, and imaginative. You understand the big picture, think quickly on your feet, have ideas for solving problems, and are comfortable with unstructured work that entails design, invention, or change. You are receptive to new ideas and value finding better ways of doing things. This is particularly important in jobs that require creativity, problem solving, strategic planning, and leadership. You are bright, knowledgeable, and up-to-date concerning current issues and technology. You also seem self-disciplined, achievement-oriented, and productive, and should enjoy pursuing tasks to completion. You will value training for yourself and others, will seek opportunities to grow and develop, and will want to apply the latest relevant knowledge to the work setting. These characteristics are important for most jobs.

Values and Drivers

---

Achievement Motivation

You prefer to put business before pleasure, you avoid distractions and activities that waste time and money, and you believe in maintaining a professional appearance and conduct at work. You are keenly interested in career advancement, you evaluate yourself in terms of your accomplishments, hate wasting time, and want to make an impact on your organization and your profession. Although you appreciate positive comments on your performance, you are reluctant to engage in self-promotion, and prefer to wait for others to notice your accomplishments.

Social Interests

You enjoy meeting new people, you like working as part of a team, and you may not like working by yourself. You enjoy the entire process of networking, including reaching out and communicating with others and renewing old acquaintances. You enjoy assisting and developing others, especially those who need the most help. You help others because it is the right thing to do. You also think it is important to pay attention to staff morale, communicate with staff regularly, ask them for feedback, and to encourage and support their efforts. You enjoy change, variety, innovation, and diversity, and you dislike tradition, custom, formality, and uniformity. You seem willing to experiment and challenge convention in the name of possible progress.

Entrepreneurial Values

You seem to have a sensible attitude toward money; although you appreciate its value, you are not preoccupied by compensation issues. You judge yourself in part by income potential, but you also take pride in family, friends, and leisure time activities. You seem unconcerned about job security and are willing to take chances to advance your career. You do not need a lot of direction in your work, and you do not mind unexpected changes in work assignments.

Decision Making Style

You seem to strike a balance between form and function in decision making. You want equipment to look good but also to perform reliably and efficiently. You understand the trade off between elegant style and durable performance and use it in making decisions. You seem to prefer to make decisions based on experience, intuition, and insight, and you avoid "paralysis by analysis".

Challenges

---

Reactions to Others

You seem calm and not easily frustrated; others may also find that your enthusiasm for new projects and people can be guarded at times. Because you appear unusually trusting of others, they may wonder if you are, in fact, as trusting as you seem. You seem active, confident, and open to challenges, and are able to make decisions in a timely manner. You seem polite and considerate, which might be a problem if you work in an environment that rewards toughness. Because you are so stoic, others may not know what is on your mind. You also dislike being interrupted, can be skeptical of others' competency, and possibly you are hard to coach.

Personal Performance Expectations

Others may see you as mannerly, polite, and unassertive. You seem frank, straightforward, and understated. You seem somewhat hesitant to call attention to yourself. You seem smart, creative, and somewhat unorthodox in your thinking. Others will notice that your ideas seem unconventional, unusual, and unpredictable. These tendencies are important for problem solving, but over time, others may find some of your ideas impractical, unrealistic, or unworkable.

Reactions to Authority

You seem polite and hardworking, with high standards of performance. You easily accept structure, direction, and feedback, and assume others share these tendencies. Although you are planful and conscientious, others may find you hard to work with because you want to do things yourself, you are hard to please, and you can be inflexible about rules and procedures. You seem independent and self-reliant, and may become tired quickly when working as part of a team.

Career Development

---

When Strengths Become Weaknesses—Development feedback for Michael Fitzgerald

You tend to be somewhat defensive and may take things personally. As such, periodically remind yourself to lighten up and perhaps even practice stress management. You are keenly interested in career advancement. Work to stay alert and look for opportunities to make these interests known. You need to remember not to intimidate inexperienced or more junior team members, to practice letting others be in charge, and to be patient with others who are less motivated to succeed. You are so extraverted and enthusiastic that you may need to remember to listen carefully to what others are saying and not interrupt them—especially when dealing with inexperienced or more junior colleagues and with clients. You should also make a point to share credit with others for successes achieved. Because you value getting along with others, you will tend to avoid taking unpopular positions. Remember to be careful not to promise more than you can deliver, to confront problems promptly before they become unmanageable, and to let others know where you stand on specific topics. Because you sometimes do not pay attention to details, you should make a list each day of things to accomplish. Be sure there is a system in place to follow-up on loose ends and commitments to customers and coworkers. You should make a special effort to complete tedious tasks and be sure to gather enough information before making important decisions. Although you are imaginative and visionary, you may become easily bored with routine tasks; remember to stay with tasks until they are finished. You value being well-informed and will proactively seek training opportunities. Realize that you may become frustrated when they are not available. Moreover, you will enjoy setting your own performance goals because you are very achievement oriented.

Dealing with Derailment Tendencies

- First, remember your strengths—when you are at your best, you are a colorful, visionary, and stimulating person. Others will appreciate your imagination and creative thinking.
- Second, you do not always communicate clearly. As a result, ideas either get lost or do not get implemented because people do not know what is meant or intended. You should make extra efforts to ensure that others understand you and should be alert for signs that communication has broken down.
- Third, your career will develop most productively if you focus on your ideas that seem to hold the interest of others. In this way, more ideas will get turned into action because of the involvement of others.
- Finally, you would benefit from partnering with someone who may be less creative, but who is better at implementation. This person, who should like your ideas and want to help implement them, can provide assistance in bringing ideas to fruition.

Summary of Scores from your Leadership Forecast Reports

| Scale   | %  | Scale Interpretation  |
|---|----|---|
| Hogan Personality Inventory            |    |   |
| Adjustment                             | 23 | Concerns composure, optimism, and stable moods.   |
| Ambition                               | 73 | Concerns taking initiative, being competitive, and seeking leadership roles.                          |
| Sociability                            | 65 | Concerns seeming talkative, socially bold, and entertaining.  |
| Interpersonal Sensitivity              | 90 | Concerns being agreeable, considerate, and skilled at maintaining relationships.                      |
| Prudence                               | 14 | Concerns being conscientious, dependable, and rule-abiding.   |
| Inquisitive                            | 94 | Concerns being curious, imaginative, visionary, and easily bored.                                     |
| Learning Approach                      | 73 | Concerns enjoying formal education and actively staying up-to-date on business and technical matters. |
| Motives, Values, Preferences Inventory |    |   |
| Recognition                            | 0  | Desire to be known, seen, visible, and famous.  |
| Power                                  | 76 | Desire for challenge, competition, achievement, and success.  |
| Hedonism                               | 33 | Desire for fun, excitement, variety, and pleasure.  |
| Altruistic                             | 96 | Desire to serve others, to improve society, and to help the less fortunate.                           |
| Affiliation                            | 79 | Need for frequent and varied social contact.  |
| Tradition                              | 14 | Concerns for morality, family values, and devotion to duty.   |
| Security                               | 10 | Need for structure, order, and predictability.  |
| Commerce                               | 42 | Interest in earning money, realizing profits, and finding business opportunities.                     |
| Aesthetics                             | 54 | Interest in the look, feel, sound, and design of products and artistic work.                          |
| Science                                | 15 | Interest in new ideas, technology, and a rational and data-based approach to problem solving.         |
| Hogan Development Survey               |    |   |
| Excitable                              | 55 | Concerns being overly enthusiastic about people/projects, and then becoming disappointed with them.   |
| Skeptical                              | 36 | Concerns being socially insightful, but cynical and overly sensitive to criticism.                    |
| Cautious                               | 10 | Concerns being overly worried about being criticized.   |
| Reserved                               | 49 | Concerns lacking interest in or awareness of the feelings of others.                                  |
| Leisurely                              | 79 | Concerns being charming, but independent, stubborn, and hard to coach.                                |
| Bold                                   | 57 | Concerns having inflated views of one's competency and worth.   |
| Mischievous                            | 64 | Concerns being charming, risk-taking, and excitement-seeking.   |
| Colorful                               | 57 | Concerns being dramatic, engaging, and attention-seeking.   |
| Imaginative                            | 99 | Concerns thinking and acting in interesting, unusual, and even eccentric ways.                        |
| Diligent                               | 85 | Concerns being conscientious, perfectionistic, and hard to please.                                    |
| Dutiful                                | 24 | Concerns being eager to please and reluctant to act independently.                                    |

Step 4 – Review Each Forecast Report

The Leadership Forecast Reports are designed to help you understand "why" you do what you do. There are three reports in the series including the Potential, Challenge, and Values Reports. Use this section to record strengths and opportunities as identified in the Leadership Forecast Reports.

In the previous step, you reviewed a summary of the three Leadership Forecast Reports. You are now ready to complete an in-depth review of the individual reports. We suggest you read all three reports before completing this section. Once you have read the reports, you should go back, and beginning with the Potential Report, review and record strengths and opportunities for development in each of the competency domains. Do the same for the Challenge and Values Reports. Keep in mind that it is not necessary to list something in every box. Only record the strengths and opportunities that are pertinent to your job success.

| Domains              | Potential Report               | Challenge Report               | Values Report                  |
|----------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| BUSINESS      | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: |
| LEADERSHIP    | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: |
| INTERPERSONAL | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: |
| INTRAPERSONAL | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: | Strengths:Opportunity: |

Step 5 – Complete Data Integration

You have now completed an analysis of your job, reviewed your 360 results, and reviewed your assessment results. You have all the data you need to identify some high impact development targets. First, use your overall impression of the data to identify any behaviors that you believe need to change to improve your job performance. Record those behaviors in the right-hand column under the appropriate domain. It is not necessary to list something in every box. Record only those behaviors that indicate a clear need for attention. Second, in the middle column record the actual 360 items (or statements) that suggested a need for improvement. Finally, in the left-hand column record the Leadership Forecast Report results that help you understand "why" you exhibit these behaviors. Keep in mind, the best development targets are those that will significantly improve your job performance, you have clear data supporting the need for change, and you have acquired some insight as to "why" you exhibit the behavior.

| Domains       | Using the assessment data from Step 4, describe the results that indicate why you do what you do. | Using the 360 data (or statements) from Step 2, list items that led you to select behaviors needing improvement. | Describe behaviors that need to change in order to improve your performance. |
|---------------|---|--|--|
| BUSINESS      |   |  |  |
| LEADERSHIP    |   |  |  |
| INTERPERSONAL |   |  |  |
| INTRAPERSONAL |   |  |  |

Building Your Development Plan

---

There are many options for creating a development plan. Two options you should consider are outlined below.

Your company's approach

Most companies offer some form of a development planning form that can be used to document and track your personal development. In-house approaches vary widely, but usually include a place to specify development goals, action plans, and a way to document progress. The advantage of using an in-house approach is that it is consistent with what other people are doing in the organization and likely has some structure which conforms to an in-house development process.

If an in-house approach is not available or if you are looking for an alternative, the following approach should be considered.

Development Planning Form

For those interested in a simple paper-and-pencil approach that does not require a large time investment to create, we have provided a planning form that is located in Appendix A. Based on the information you recorded in Section 5, you should identify one or two development goals and record them in the first column of the form. A good development goal is one that is stated in behavioral terms and can be measured over time to ensure progress. Development action items can be listed in the second column and progress toward achieving the goal can be recorded in the subsequent columns over time. If you need suggestions for development actions, the Internet provides a rich source of information. An inverted pyramid approach is recommended to complete a successful Internet search. Begin with a specific development question, perhaps even the goal you have selected. Work backward using less specific search questions until you locate information that you find useful. This approach often reduces search time on the Internet and improves the probability of finding information directly related to your development goal.

Appendix A – Development Planning Form

---

| Goal | Development Actions | Results  |          |          |
|------|---------------------|----------|----------|----------|
|      |                     | 3 Months | 6 Months | 9 Months |
|      |                     |          |          |          |
|      |                     |          |          |          |

